

How can you find 250 million candidates?

AIRS SearchStation can help you find candidates faster

SearchStation, the state-of-the-art passive candidate sourcing tool from AIRS, slashes Internet search time for recruiters. Designed to streamline your active candidate sourcing as well as open up a treasure trove of undiscovered passive candidates on the Web, SearchStation is the key to success for your sourcing team.

Named one of the "Top HR Products of the Year" for 2000 by Human Resource Executive magazine, SearchStation automates the manual search processes taught in AIRS seminars to help you find candidate information - resumes, homepages, contact information - in hidden directories and archives all over the Net. SearchStation can help you sift through billions of Web pages to find targeted, skill-specific passive candidates in a fraction of the time with startling results. And now e-recruiters can send resumes found with SearchStation directly to their Applicant Tracking System.

SearchStation helps e-Recruiters:

- Instantly search Monster, Headhunter, Dice, HotJobs and 47 other resume banks with a single click
- Automatically sift through 1.7 billion pages for resumes of targeted passive candidates
- Filters duplicates, 95% of all job postings and web "clutter"
- Save resumes to leading applicant tracking systems
- Search International search engines for candidates in Europe and Canada
- Leverage their current recruiting database to find more great candidates with PeerSearch - the find one, find them all methodology

Technical Career Partners

"Most of the resume boards are saturated with competing firms and offer us no real competitive advantage. SearchStation allows us to retain that edge by identifying the passive job seeker."

Daren Bitter

IntePros Consulting

"AIRS SearchStation is the best I know of for finding passive candidates. It searches a half a billion Web Pages for resumes."
